LETTER FROM BOSTON

OUR WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT TAKES A RUN TO BOSTON

BOSTON, Dec 26 1872

New England was dressed in winter garb to receive me as I reached Boston on Sunday morning I took the night train a week since at Washington was stowed away safely in a sleeping section and was waked the next morning at 8 o clock as we neared New York My section companion was evidently though a young man something of a politician —and a very companionable as sort of traveling acquaintance he proved to be We passed until late bed time in conversation

A STORY OF THE SPHYNX

He was evidently intimate at the White House, and also a friend of the Attorney General He was in the office of the latter when the Louisiana delegation made its official visit to Judge Williams and he gave a good description of the scene, showing how the War moth faction didn t make anything off the Attorney General, who afterwards accompanied them to the President My companion slipped over in advance to tell Grant they were coming, and remained to witness their interview with the President The President informed them, as we all know, that he felt it his duty to abide the decision of the United States courts and sustain their orders Which saying was gall and wormwood to the delegation from Louisiana One point made here was that Judge Campbell the leader of the delegation was, before the war a District Judge of the United States at New Orleans

The President is called a ' sphynx '—and the world wonders if the ' sphynx' over lets his cigar go out and unbends According to the account of my pleasant companion the 'man of destiny ' unbent considerably as soon as the Louisianians had left to vent their curses on the avenue and he told his friends how much he would have liked to get off a little hit at Judge Campbell, only that the dignity of his position prevented When he told Judge Campbell that he should abide the decision of the U S Courts, he felt inclined to add that there were instances when that was not entirely reliable as a Judge had been known to decide that a State had a constitutional right to secede The hit would have been that this very Judge Campbell, when a U S Judge in Louisiana rendered such a decision before the war

UP THE SOUND

I went on board a Sound steamer on Saturday afternoon, and was made as comfortable as a person can be made in traveling The state rooms are warmed by steam pipes, the lower berth is a double bed, and a good one A dollar secures a whole state room for one or for a family You can order as good a dinner on board the City of Boston as you are willing to pay for and able to stow away The upper saloon traverses the length of the floating palace, and you can while away the time reading or taking notes of the groups of passengers We were bound for New London, and a deputation of New Londoners were returning from New York, where I imagine that they had been to prepare for the near approach of Christmas Having been on the train the night before I was hardly able to appreciate the life and vivacity which these good people and young people of New London had such an abundant supply of, and would rather have slept than been amused thereby During our journey up the Sound the snow had been busily and silently engaged occupying the outworks of nature, and when we landed we found it still industriously coming down

A NEW ENGLAND SNOW STORM

From New London, via Worcester and the Albany road we reached Boston none too early in the Sabbath morning It was a dreary ride and an uncomfortable one because the wind was indulging in the maddest of freaks and made wild work with the new and light lying snow This latter didn't put the engines eyes out, but when we slowed down to a snail s pace, and finally came to a dead standstill in the dreariest reach of a New England landscape, it was because the troublesome snow had choked the furnaces and almost put out the fires So we—or rather they—put out the snow again and then 'put out" for Boston All this while the car fires also refused to burn Smoke came out of the stoves with stifling effect and the road to Boston was one of tearful progress

We finally reached the ' Hub, ' there were only four passengers on that dolorous train and I therefore had to undergo a great deal to endure my share of the discomfort—and I found Boston very nearly "snow bound ' Boston is a place where it is against the law to do anything Sunday that can be done at any other season of the year and I with difficulty obtained a poor breakfast, and then with greater difficulty proceeded to find a brother who lives in the city but outside the metropolitan portion Dorchester is now a part of Boston and the old Colony road takes one there of week days, but on Sunday the depot was closed and no cars run There were street cars, however and I waited and possessed my soul in patience until one of these put in an appearance The cars only ran, owing to the storm, within a mile and a half of my destination, and my journey was like to end in a tussle with the whirlwinds of snow, when along came a cutter and a spanking pair of bays and somebody s coachman to drive them, and as our ways were the same and the coachman had a warm Irish heart under his great coat the wayfarer was taken in and whirled along much more to his satisfaction than the winds were doing it

CHRISTMAS IN BOSTON

As I remarked in the commencement Boston had on its wintriest garb that Sunday morning Winter street was extended in every direction and winter was lord of a bleak kingdom Since my arrival the mercury has shunned the popular gaze and kept down to about nothing I think it has once or twice dipped a notch or two below zero The good people of Boston have made a great deal of this Christmas as no doubt they do of every one Monday and Tuesday I was in the city and made a labored passage through the most fashionable shopping streets. They were literally thronged and the fancy stores were all full of crowds of holiday purchasers Words ordinarily used will not express the situation of that eager multitude which was soon everywhere but was especially multitudinous in Washington and Winter and Tremont streets There were so many of us that we had to make a detour through the ruins to get out of the crowds and make certain of reaching the train in due time

THE RUINS

For the space of several blocks on the east side of Washington street the ruins stand facing the busy crowds and oppose the gauntness of their desolation to the gaudy shop fronts and eastward thence spreading broadly to the very harbor are fragments of walls, and occasional portions of what were fronts of magnificent palaces of trade The area is not as large as I expected but it swept over the richest and in many respects the most important commercial centers of the great northern metropolis The ruins still smoul der with suppressed fires, and the work of clearing away the conglomerate mass into which various materials have been melted, will be no small item of the expense of rebuilding It is a scene of desolation so utter of ruin so hopeless that it is difficult to believe that such lordly structures as we read of in the accounts once stood in apparently impregnable security

A considerable trade has already sprung up in fire relics I have a few interesting specimens, gathered on the spot a month since, when there before Thanksgiving The road ways have been cleared so that it is easy to make one s way through the former thoroughfares but the labor of clearing in preparation for the rebuilding has partially ceased as the weather is too inclement for the work to be successfully prosecuted

The Boston fire has been productive of depressing results in financial circles so as to be felt throughout the nation, but Boston will soon be rebuilt—with improvements as to the width of streets and character of structures, and the energy of its people may be even stimulated by the great fire

BOSTON SCHOOLS

I have been somewhat interested in the subject of education at the East Washington has a most excellent system of common schools, and I had supposed it as perfect as any city possessed in the Union Boston schools are an improvement on the excellent school system of the State The High Schools give a full preparatory for Harvard and are free to all comers Not only so, but the poorer scholars are furnished with books, slates etc, so that there is no excuse for neglect of education by any The High School near here gives the best instruction in Latin, Greek, French German and the sciences This renders a University education unnecessary save for those who can afford it, or who choose paths in life that require such superior training and advanced discipline Boston has a public library that contains over 200 000 volumes, and on which the city expends $50,000 annually This is open to every citizen who can give a good reference, and this being sustained, he can get any books he pleases, and they can be kept two weeks

THE TERRITORIES

An interesting teachers' institute was held at Walla Walla week before last

There are 2 994 children entitled to draw school money in Walla Walla county

Earthquake shocks are still occasionally felt, or supposed to be, at Walla Walla

Land slides continue to interrupt railroad travel between the Columbia river and Puget Sound

There is much sickness reported in Walla Walla valley, the complaints generally originating in colds

The bonds of the Sheriff of Thurston county have been raised to $6,000—$2,000 more than ever heretofore required

The Mormons are still petitioning Heaven to prevent the spread of the small pox in their lovely valley, unless it can be confined to the Gentiles

Some small vessels doing business between Victoria and the San Juan Islands before the latter were given up to the United States, have lost a profitable trade

Two young chaps in Walla Walla indulged in pin sticking and slapping in church and their parents had to go their bail $100 each for their appearance before the courts

Colorado wants to be admitted as a State the present session of Congress. She now has a population of over 100,000 and the assessed value of taxable property is $31 087,211, and there are 480 miles of railroad completed and in operation within the Territory

Some wags at Port Townsend played a trick on a doctor not long since by calling him some distance from town to attend one of their comrades who, they said, had been wounded and was about to die in the woods The doctor went and found the patient all smeared with blood which had never run in his veins, but which had been taken from a rabbit recently killed by the party The doctor didn t enjoy the joke, neither did the other fellows when the son of Esculapeus compelled them to pay $60 for professional services.

At a regular communication of Blue Mountain Lodge, No 13, F and A M, held at Masonic Hall, in Walla Walla on Monday, December 26th, 1872, the following members were regularly elected, and on St John s Day, December 27th, duly installed as its officers for the ensuing Masonic year Frank Kimmerly, W M; L S Crockett, S W, H E Johnson, J W, W P Adams, Treasurer, Ralph Guichard, Secretary, John Goudy, S D W T Aubery, G T, N T Caton and John Justice, Stewards, John Bryant, Tyler

The Work of Congress.

The House has now on its files over three thousand bills The number of bills pending in the House is about 330, an increase of 300 since the session began, while the Senate has added nearly 100, making the present total nearly 1,300. The most important bills which have passed both houses are those reducing the internal revenue force by the abolition of the offices of assessor and assistant assessor, authorizing the exchange of registered for coupon bonds, the annual pension appropriation of thirty millions, and that appropriating half a million dollars for the purchase of the remainder of the Boston post office square. The House has passed and sent to the Senate, in addition, the Indians and deficiency appropriation, the steam sloop of war, Boston relief, Vienna exposition, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois two per cent bills, and the soldiers' land bounty bill, most of which have been referred to committees; that for the relief of Boston, after two day's debate The House has also taken one test vote on universal amnesty, which failed, 101 to 80, and passed a resolution indirectly opposing Mr Sumner's resolution to remove the names of battles of the rebellion from the regular army flags and register. Both the latter are now pending in the Senate The House has also removed the civil rights bill, which so persistently obstructed business last session, by referring it to a committee with leave to report at any time, while the Senate has paid no attention to the subject Besides the Credit Mobilier, investigations have been ordered by the House into the Johnson defalcation in the New York subtreasury and into the existing stringency of the money market, the Senate having authorized one similar to the last

The Problem at Home and Abroad.

In America the problems which most engage the thoughts of politicians and political economists, are, how shall we most speedily people our expansive domains, and what shall we do with the surplus of the products of the soil. Millions of acres of land that is better than a vast amount that is now occupied, lie vacant, and still the production is so greatly in excess of consumption that we are forced to look abroad for a market for every article that will bear transportation. The farmers of the northwest burn corn for fuel, and they can do so at less cost than to burn wood at $7 50 per cord, cut up. Indeed, the papers of the corn-producing prairie States, are now seriously discussing the question whether it will not prove the most economical course to raise corn for fuel as a regular crop. But corn is breadstuff—not so quoted in the marts of the world, but breadstuff, nevertheless, such as a very great portion of the people of the Mississippi Valley use almost exclusively. And it is the very best means of producing the staple meats of the poor. So we are engaged in the endeavor to get rid of the surplus of our productions of the chief articles of food. How shall we manage to dispose of the excess of our wheat and corn and pork at such rates as will pay for their production? This is the all-absorbing question. Upon it depends the commercial and financial situation of the country.

In England, the problem is reversed. English statesmen devote themselves to the question, How shall we obtain food for our people at such prices as shall enable the poor man to support his family upon his daily earnings? England, it is estimated, will want during the present year, one hundred millions centals, or one hundred and sixty-six millions bushels, of wheat, besides her own production, to fill the months of her immense population. And the meat problem, too, is pressing upon the English statesmen. It is stated that a very large proportion of the poor of London and of the manufacturing cities of the island, have no flesh diet from week to week and for months at a time. Seven and one-half to nine cents per pound for butcher's meats of inferior quality, is more than the poor laborer or operative, can afford out of his small wages. Bread is a prime necessity. There is no putting away the demand for the staff of life. And the cost of bread leaves no allowance for other articles.

It is plain neither of the two nations is, or will be, able to reach the solution of its problem alone. At least, England can never solve the problem on which she is engaged, without the co-operation of America, and America cannot solve hers during this or the next generation. England surcharged with population, cannot possibly produce enough for them to live upon, under any system, and America can never consume her surplus food till the population of the country is at least five times as great as it is at present. America must supply England with food and England must furnish a market for the products of American labor.

The question then really is reduced to one of transportation. High freights from the field of production in America to the place of consumption in England, make it impossible for the American producer to realize a fair compensation for his labor and the means he has invested in the process of produbtion, notwithstanding the price of the material, when it reaches England, is so high as to exhaust the feeble resources of the consumer. Meanwhile, the carriers grow rich, and, after a few years, retire to a life of elegant leisure or buy their way to political place and power. The solution, then, of the problem on both sides of the Atlantic, is the same. Cheap transportation is the talisman. Let the middle men have only such profits as will be a fair compensation for their energy and capital. Say for illustration, that the profits now made by the carrier, are divided equally between him and the producer and consumer. Allow the consumer, in the way of reduction on the price he pays for his food, one-third of the net profits now enjoyed by the carrier, and give another third to the producer in the augmentation of the price paid to him, and the balance will be the carrier's share in the results of the transaction. This would amply compensate the carrier. To say this, is only to say that instead of becoming rich in six or seven years, as at present, it will take him eighteen or twenty-one years to amass his fortune. This time is short enough. The rewards of industry, with a reasonable degree of prosperity, would hardly enable a man, who starts out with nothing but a willingness to do his part in the world's work, to retire from the field in a shorter period, under any fair division of the fruits of labor.

But how is this happy arrangement for the distribution of the wages of work to be carried into effect? It is a very beautiful theory certainly, but by what plan is it to be reduced to practice? President Grant, in his last message, following close in the wake of an enlightened public opinion that has been growing more and more pronounced for the last year or two, hinted at the answer to the question, when he recommended Congress to take steps to increase the means of transportation from the interior to the seaboard, and upon the high seas. It is hardly possible, however, that any action of Congress can remove the difficulty. It is too great to be met thus summarily. But whenever it is met it will be done by the means suggested by the President—competition, which inevitable will secure cheapness of transportation. The man who will devise a plan to place competing lines of transportation in every district of the inland, and upon the high seas, so that the capital invested in the carrying trade shall produce only such earnings as other legitimate investments earn, will solve the question for both nations.

Yesterday was the time appointed by law for the convening of the Hawaiian Legislature. It has been supposed the succession to the throne would be determined by this body, though some claim that the Legisture has no power over the question, and it must be referred back to the people. The matter is as likely to end in an insurrection as any other way.

The Japanese Embassadors recently visited President Thiers in European dress, wearing the diplomatic uniform. Mutual expressions of desire for the continuance of friendly relations between the two nations, were exchanged by Thiers and the Chief Embassador.

Death of Louis Napoleon

The inexorable harvester enters upon the new year as he closed the old, reaping his sheaves from the distinguished places of the earth. Charles Louis Napoleon Bonaparte, the late Emperor of France, died at Chiselhurst, England, on Wednesday last at 10 45 A. M. He was born in Paris April 20th, 1808, and was therefore in his sixty-fifth year at the time of his death. He was the youngest son of Louis Bonaparte, the King of Holland, and Hortense Eugenie Beauharnais. His father was a brother of the first Napoleon, and his mother a daughter of the Empress Josephine. His father and mother separating soon after his birth, he was educated mainly by the latter, who resided in Paris under the title of the Queen of Holland. At the decline of the fortunes of the great Emperor, Hortense retired to Augsberg, Germany, and afterwards went into Switzerland, where she spent her summers, wintering at Rome.

In his youth, Louis was inclined to be a republican, having, according to the Cyclopedia, imbibed republican sentiments from his tutor, Mr. Lebas. He spent some time at a military academy at Thun, but did not show any particular evidence of the possession of military talents. In 1830 he petitioned Louis Philippe for permission to return to France, but his request was not granted. He then went to Italy, where in 1831 he took an active part in the revolution, for which he was banished from the papal territory, together with his elder brother, who had also engaged in the insurrection. Under the edicts of 1804 and 1805, fixing the succession of the Empire, Louis, on the death of Reichstadt in 1832, became the successor to Napoleon I. He had before requested to be allowed to enter the French army, which had been refused. His ambition now first perceived the possibility of a career worthy of great effort, and he set to work to win over the French people to an approval of his claims to the imperial dignity. He wrote a book to prove the necessity of an Emperor to the maintenance of a true republican organization of France. In 1836 he put himself at the head of a few soldiers of the garrison at Strasbourg, who had been prepared for an insurrection, and proclaimed a revolution. The effort failed miserably, Napoleon was taken prisoner, and would have been executed but for the entreaties of his mother, by which Louis Philippe was moved to commute his punishment. He was banished to the United States. After a brief period of illness in this country, he went to South America. Thence he returned to Switzerland on account of the severe illness of his mother, reaching there in 1837 just in time to be with her at her death. He immediately thereafter set to work to justify his Strasbourg rebellion, which fact occasioned a demand upon the Swiss government for his extradition, but while the negotiations were pending he escaped to England, where he employed his time in writing his book Idees Napoleoniennes, the purpose of which was to enamor the French people of the Bonaparte dynasty by magnifying the plans and policy of the first Napoleon for the aggrandizement of France. But he did not give himself to this work exclusively, for he now got up a revolutionary expedition to France, in connection with Count Montholon, who had been a companion of his uncle at St. Helena. His army of invasion consisted of about fifty persons and landed at Boulogne in August, 1840. Napoleon, on this expedition took with him a tame eagle, with the expectation that the bird would perform some exploit to arouse the enthusiasm of the French at Boulogne, and thus secure for its master a favorable reception. The historian has been compelled to record, however, that the eagle proved a very tame ally, taking no interest in the contest, and utterly disappointing the hopes of the Prince, who was captured, tried for treason, convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life in the fortress of Ham. While in this prison, where he remained six years, he devoted himself to literature, writing mainly on political and historical subjects, producing also a manual of artillery practice. At the end of six years he bribed the physician of the prison, and, through his assistance, escaping in the dress of a workman, made his way to England. When, two years later, the revolution of 1848 broke out in France, he ventured back to Paris where he was received with acclamation and chosen a deputy to the National Assembly from four several departments one being that of the Seine. Lamartine, being opposed to the Bonaparte dynasty, endeavored to prevent his taking his Seat in the Assembly, and demanded his banishment from France, but in this he failed, and Napoleon was the most popular member of the Assembly. On December 10, 1848, he was chosen President of the Republic. With the power he now had in his hands, he rapidly pushed his plan for re-establishing the Empire. Early in 1851, thinking the time had come for decisive action, he dismissed Changarnier who commanded the army of Paris, and who was unfriendly to his aspiration, and prepared for a coup d'etat. Events, however, postponed final action till late in the fall, when, having organized a strong military force in his interest, he decreed an election of a President for ten years, and was, of course, chosen. In January following a decree was issued commanding an election to revive the imperial dignity in the person of Louis Napoleon under the name of Napoleon III. Thus ended the Republic of 1848.

The principal events of his reign as Emperor, were the alliance with England and Turkey which defeated the Russians in the Crimean war of 1856; the establishment of the Mexican Empire, which ended in the terrible scene at Queretaro when his creative Maximillian, who was really better than the average of his degree, deserted by the author of his troubles, was shot down like a condemned felon, the Franco-Italian war against Austria, in which he he achieved the only success of his reign, and the famous Franco-German war of 1870, which he began without cause or decent pretext, calling up a whirlwind which swept away at once his Empire and the prestige of France as a military nation.

A Bonaparte and a fatalist, Louis Napoleon braved everything for his idea of becoming Emperor of France. This was his only faith, and he believed in it simply as a matter of destiny. Hence his Quixotic attempt at Strasbourg, and again at Boulogne, to obtain the Empire without the use of any of the ordinary means of accomplishing such an end. The revolution of 1848 inspired his hopes and fired his heart, and he rushed recklessly to the front. It so happened that instead of being beheaded he was made President. The one fate was about as probable as the other, so far as human foresight could perceive; but the cast was in his favor, and his destiny was accomplished. For nearly twenty years he made France happy by ruling her despotically and building her up in the elements of internal prosperity; and finally plunged her into all the miseries consequent upon the late terrible war by following the same blind fatality which, throughout his whole life, continually led him or compelled him into courses that others saw must end only in disaster. One of the most remarkable men of his time has yielded up his life while in exile, dependent, for the third time, for shelter and safety upon the hospitality of that land which banished the founder of his dynasty from the presence of civilized man.

A Washington dispatch of December 26th says that there have been printed and bound at the Government printing office, parts first and second of volume I, of the Surgeon-General's Medical and Surgical History of the War. Each of these two books is said to be as thick as Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, and profusely illustrated with costly wood cuts and chromo-lithographs. The dispatch mentions that it is supposed every surgeon who served in the army during the war will want a copy of this work. The supposition is a very natural one, but we venture the assertion that it is not strictly correct. We think we could name a physician in Portland who was in the army from September 16, 1862, to January 23, 1863, and again from May 9, 1864, to February 20, 1865, and who don't want a copy, and, in fact, don't want anything to do with the Surgeon General's report. He is ready and willing to sacrifice his one thousand dollars of stock in that concern.

On December 24th the President signed the bill to reduce the expenses of the Internal Revenue Bureau. This is the bill devolving on the Collectors the work heretofore performed by both Collectors and Assessors. A Washington dispatch says the provision for the law to go into effect on the 1st of July, 1873, was stricken out, and that the law takes effect in the present month.

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING JANUARY 10 1873

CITY.

An Old Citizen Gone.—As a public journal ist, we are called upon to perform the sad duty of chronicling the death of Mr James Warren Davis, an old and favorably known citizen of Portland Mr Davis died at the residence of D W Burnside, on Wednesday evening at 20 minutes to 5 o clock, after a long and painful illness of several months His disease was dropsy The deceased was born at Fort Wayne, Indiana, on the 15th of January 1829 and consequently lacked five days of being 44 years of age In 1835 his father, the late Anthony L Davis removed to Kansas, as Indian Agent for what was then known as the "Indian Territory After several years residence in Kansas the family removed to Jackson county, Mo, whence they removed to Oregon in 1850 The deceased, then a young man of great promise, was variously engaged with several of the leading business men of Portland, until 1855, when he was appointed Clerk of the United States District Court for Multnomah county Shortly afterward he was appointed Clerk of the entire District comprising Washington, Multnomah, Columbia and Clatsop counties, which position he held until the reorganization of the courts by the admission of Oregon as a state in 1859 After some years spent in the Oro Fino mines, the Portland postoffice and the mining districts of Idaho, he permanently located in this city, and subsequently was appointed Deputy County Clerk of Multnomah county, a position he held, notwithstanding changes occurred in the heads of the office, until July 1872 During all this time he had especial charge of the business of the County Courts, and at times of the Circuit Court At various times between 1856 and 1862, he acted as clerk of the Common Council, and always to the entire satisfaction of that body Upon retiring last summer from the County Clerk's office, his health continued gradually to fail, until his recovery was entirely despaired of Mr Davis in his personal attachments was warm and strong, and in his intercourse with the world gentlemanly and affable. In the discharge of his official duties he was always careful, exact, and uniformly courteous and pleasant On all general subjects he was well informed, and could converse pleasantly on nearly any topic Few men who have ever resided in Portland could surpass him in all those peculiar clerical qualifications necessary to the correct and rapid dispatch of office work He leaves several relatives and many friends to mourn his death

The funeral will take place to day at 11 o'clock A. M., from the residence of D. W Burnside, corner of Fourth and Pine streets

The following persons—all ex County Clerks, except the last—will act as pall bearers W S Caldwell, Shubrick Norris, John Brock, B L Norden, C W Parrish and Ralph Wilcox

Another Fire Company.—Since the recent destructive fire in Portland, the subject of the organization of one or more fire companies for the additional security and protection of property in the city, has been frequently agitated. Several days ago, some enterprising citizens who reside in the southern portion of the city, concluded that they would take the initiatory steps toward the formation of a fifth company in Portland The commendable efforts put forth with that object in view, have met with encouraging and satisfactory results A petition setting forth the purposes of the organization, and pledging not only a hearty sympathy and cooperation in the move, but membership, was circulated among the citizens, property holders, and numerously signed Thirty five names have already been appended to the petition. These signers are without exception holders of property, and freely consent to become firemen Prominent among the signers could be named some of the principal men of the city The law requires that thirty charter members must be obtained before any company can be admitted into the Department As more than this number of members have been procured, it is determined to hold a meeting to take further steps toward perfecting the organization We are requested to state that a meeting will be held on next Saturday evening at eight o'clock, sharp, at the corner of Clay and Front streets All who have signed the petition are requested to be in attendance, and as many more who may feel an interest in the matter. If an organization is effected, the new company will be known as Tiger, No. 5.

Stemming the Current—During the present high stage of water, the Stark street ferry has much difficulty in effecting landings at the proper place. As the ferry was coming from the eastern shore late on Wednesday evening, the current obtained some advantage over the boat, which was borne down opposite the O S N Co's wharf At that point the current sets in strong toward the shore The engineer finding that the boat was "in for it," turned on all the steam, and attempted to run past the upper end of the wharf, but the effort was of no avail The power was inadequate to drive the unwieldy craft forward, or even hold her up against the force of the current. The boat continued slowly to back down Again and again did the engineer attempt to pass the point, but each time to relinquish the design finding that no perceptible headway was gained, the ferry started to the other shore, and after reaching the middle of the river and getting beyond the strongest part of the current, she managed to reach the landing at the foot of Stark street.

Library—A valuable addition of some 200 volumes of scientific and historical works has recently been added to the Bishop Scott Grammar School Library through the liberality of the friends and patrons of that institution in this city They were selected and purchased from the library of the late Mr Jordan, architect Although this institution has been so recently established, it has already collected a valuable library, to which additions are steadily made We understand that it is in contemplation to erect a detached building entirely of brick and iron and perfectly fire proof, in which this library, together with the valuable chemical and philosophical apparatus already in possession of the School will be kept. With such provision for the preservation of the books, the library could certainly be made to grow much more rapidly, and contributions of books and money would be made with entire confidence that the library would be safe from the great destroyer

Not until Spring.—The steamer Onward will probably not pass through the canal at Oswego before some time next spring. At the present stage of the year freight will scarcely warrant the necessary expenditure required to put the canal in a condition to allow the passage of a boat through. Captain Kellogg has caused a temporary gate to be constructed at one point along the course of the canal, which cannot be opened or shut. Water in the Tualatin river and in Oswego Lake at present will allow the steamer Onward from above, and the Henrietta from below, to approach on each side of this temporary gate to within about two or three feet of each other Freight is transferred from one boat to the other without much difficulty Until the return of good weather the attempt to pass through the canal will not be made.

Returned—Not regarding the alleged capture of the noted desperado, Shultz, at Seattle, of sufficient certainty to warrant his proceeding to that place, Superintendent Watkinds returned to Salem yesterday morning He telegraphed several times while in Portland, for more particulars, including a description of the person reported to be under arrest, but receiving no definite response, he concluded that there must have been some mistake about the affair The circumstances under which Shultz is reported to have left San Francisco, would indicate pretty strongly that he is at present lurking somewhere about the Sound country, or British Columbia, if he is not already in custody He is a regular "Slippery Dick," and no officer is likely to catch him napping, or find him off his guard.

Detained—Floating drift wood not only renders traveling by steamer attended with a degree of risk, but is the cause of vexatious delays Yesterday morning the steamer Vancouver while on the way to this city, was detained more than an hour while ascending the Wallamet, by the drift which caught in the rudders The pilot was unable to move his wheel on the account of the wood becoming crowded under the rudders, and the boat was allowed to drift at the mercy of the current for about two miles Two men in a small boat, by the aid of poles, succeeded after much delay and trouble, in ridding the helm of the obstruction, and the boat proceeded on her way

Want to Come West—A gentleman writing from Waterloo, Blackhawk county, Iowa says "There are from ten to fifteen families hereabouts in quest of some good location Most of the men are mechanics and have had some very flattering statements from your city and country in general, while others report more favorable in other places." We would advise our Waterloo friends to send one of their most reliable men to visit Oregon and take a look at things That will be the best way to learn about the country

Astoria Items—A correspondent, writing under date of the 8th, says

Wheat was being transferred from the steamer E N Cooke to day to the ship Victoria Nyanza

Two tugs went outside yesterday in response to firing of guns of a vessel off the bar She was too far out to enable the tugs to bring her in and meet other engagements A pilot was placed on board, after which the tugs returned

The schooner Oregon having taken on board a quantity of lumber is now finishing her cargo with railroad iron She is destined to San Francisco and will sail this week

The steamship Ajax went to sea th s morning

Mrs Clutchie will in two weeks move into her new house, and Portlanders will no doubt rejoice in consequence

The old Summer House at Clatsop is to be removed to make room for Holladay s new hotel which is to be erected and put in condition for occupancy for the coming summer season

The propriety of building a flouring mill at this place is being considered by persons of capital

More anon

Failed to Return—Three fellows went into the second hand store of Kafka, on Front street, yesterday and one of the parties offered to sell him a pair of boots The boots were worthless, and after some bartering, Kafka offered to give the owner one dollar for them which was accepted Kafka had only a five dollar piece in his pocket He gave this to the fellow who remarked that he would step out and get it changed He walked away but forgot to return Kafka waited long and patiently and then started out in quest of his lost four dollars After a long search he found his man in the lower part of the city in a saloon half drunk He swore out a warrant and the man was arrested on charge of larceny by bailee The other two men who came into the store were also arrested These three worthies are now in jail awaiting an investigation of the matter in the Police Court

Fears Entertained—Apprehensions are felt for the safety of the bark David Hoadley, which it is thought, is probably wrecked This bark sailed several weeks ago from San Francisco for Nanaimo She arrived at that port in safety and was taken in tow by the steamer Cyrus Walker, bound for the Sound During the passage, a heavy storm came on, and the steamer was compelled to abandon the bark The two vessels were separated, and nothing more was seen of the David Hoadley for some days A few days ago the Cyrus Walker was seen by the California out searching for the missing bark It is not known as to the fate of the vessel, whether she was driven out to sea or thrown on the shore, but her continued absence has created some uneasiness

Up the Columbia—For ten days past the stage of water on the Upper Columbia, together with the snow, cold weather, and ice in the river, have materially retarded operations at John Day Rapids Work has moved forward slowly and with much difficulty, but operations have not been wholly suspended at any one time A force of men are constantly employed in grappling the loose rock and clearing away the debris Two feet less water at that point would render operations more effective and satisfactory The river is reported falling, and as soon as the stage of water will admit, work will be resumed at Umatilla Rapids vigorously.

Gathering Logs—The tug Ben Holladay and several other steamers have been employed during the present week in gathering up the logs which were carried away a few weeks since from the upper and middle sawmills of the city. Most of the logs lost by Mr Besser have been recovered, and out of the 3,000,000 feet carried away from Smith Bros mill, about one third has been saved The logs have been gathered in small numbers in many places, scattered along the river for a long distance Next week those logs will be collected at one point, formed into a large raft and towed to the city

New Hull—Mr Pacquet, who has the contract for building the new boat belonging to the Willamette River Navigation Company, is crowding the work forward at a rate which gives assurance of the early completion of the craft The hull, we are informed, will be ready for launching by the latter part of next week When launched the new hull will be brought down opposite the Willamette Iron Works The engine, boiler and machinery, which are far towards completion, and which are to be finished by the first of next month, will be placed on board in detail as rapidly as portions are turned out

To take the Place.—The steamer Gussie Telfair was brought up on Wednesday evening from the lower sawmill, where she has been lying for the last two months, to the Steamship Company's dock This steamer will be put on the Portland and Victoria route in place of the California, which will go on the ways for the present The transportation of stone from Bellingham Bay has racked the vessel to some extent and renders overhauling and repairs necessary.

Broken—In attempting to move the draw on the railroad bridge over the Yamhill river, a few days ago, some portion of the machinery indispensable to the operation of the draw, was broken The broken portions were sent to this city yesterday to be repaired or replaced by new castings Some delay will be unavoidable and the draw will not be in condition to be operated for several days to come.

Passengers Coming—The steamship Oriflamme sailed from San Francisco yesterday for Portland, having the following passengers Mrs A J McDonald and child, Thomas Pointer, J S Brown, E C Blackslect, Dr R G Maxey, John Dolon, Ah Kung, wife and servant, T L Howell, John M Brandt, Harry Davis, Mrs H Brown, Mrs E Brown, G H Johnston, E Myers, C L Reed, W Pumphrey.

Semi Annual Election—The semi annual election of officers for the Father Matthew T. A B Society, was held last evening. The following persons were chosen to serve for the ensuing term President, Father Delahunty; Vice President, William H. Courtney, Recording Secretary, L Higgins, Financial Secretary, Michael Owens, Treasurer, P. Martin, Marshal, John Dougherty.

Obstruction Removed.—Freight, we learn, is brought through from Hodgden's over the rail road to Kalama on hand cars. A considerable quantity of oysters came up yesterday on the Fannie Troup The obstruction caused by the slide has probably before now been removed. At all events, it is confidently hoped that regular trains will very shorly be running over the road

Arrived at San Francisco—The barkentine Emma Augusta, Gilman, master, six days from Columbia river, with lumber, etc, arrived at San Francisco on the 3d inst

The barkentine Melancthon, six days from Columbia river, with 390,000 feet of lumber to W R Matthews, agent of the St Helens Mill Co, arrived at the same port on the 3d inst

Basin and Drydock—We learn that a portion of the Basin and Dry Dock at Oregon City was washed away during the high water on Wednesday We have been unable to ascertain the extent of the reported damages, or the probable loss These works are above the falls and belong to the Oregon Steamship Company

On the Way.—The barkentine Webfoot sailed from San Francisco for this port last Monday She has on board a large, first class locomotive for the east side railroad, a new boiler for the steamer Annie Stewart, and a miscellaneous cargo The brig Orient is now on the berth and will be the next vessel

Continued—The case of the United States vs the three sailors who are under arrest, charged with having broached the cargo of the bark Rival, did not come up yesterday for a preliminary examination before Commissioner Wilcox The case was continued until to day

Sabbath School Concert—The next monthly concert for Centenary M E Church, East Portland, will be held on next Sabbath, January 12th at two o clock P M An interesting programme of exercises prepared for the occasion will be observed

Stock—The steamer Fannie Troup will take 60 head of cattle this morning from the Wallamet Slough These cattle will be taken to Olympia via Kalama and the railroad They are intended to supply the market at that place

Deserter—A deserting sailor from the ship Whittington was taken into custody yesterday by U S Marshal Young He was taken before Commissioner Wilcox, and after a hearing, the prisoner was remanded to jail

Sailed from San Francisco—The brig Orient Wheelwright master sailed from above port for Portland on the 3d inst

Arrived from Victoria—The steamer California arrived from Victoria and way ports yesterday at 4 o clock P M She brought no passengers and no freight, but sufficient coal to act as ballast A rough voyage was experienced

Goes Down—The bark Rival is rapidly discharging her cargo at Flanders' wharf She will be towed down the river soon by the Ben Holladay The bark will receive a large portion of her return cargo at Westport

Still Up—The Wallamet still continues to come up It rose nearly a foot at Oregon City during Wednesday night, and five inches here Current very strong, and great quantities of drift passing

Regular Meeting—A regular meeting of the First Hebrew Benevolent Association will be held at the Vestry rooms of the Synagogue Beth Israel on Sunday, January 12th at 1 o clock P M

Fog—The steamer Oneonta did not leave her wharf yesterday morning until 8 o'clock, and the steamer Rescue until half past six, on account of the dense clouds of fog which hung over the river

A Bark Off—The latest advices from Astoria state that the German bark Mendelssohn from Hongkong is off the bar This vessel comes in ballast, and will carry away a cargo of wheat

Drawing the List—The County court were engaged yesterday in drawing the jury list for the ensuing year—100 names The entire list will not be complete until to day

Passed Out—The steamer Ajax passed out to sea Wednesday morning The bar is reported to be very smooth Just outside she was met by the California bound in

A Talk About Tonics.

The object of a tonic is to increase the elasticity and strength of the muscular fibre, and to invigorate the general system As a means of accomplishing these ends it is expected to improve the appetite and digestive power of the stomach These are certainly important considerations; but to cure dyspepsia, billious affections chronic debility intermittent fever, and other complaints involving derangements of the liver, the bowels, the nerves and the secretive organs generally, something more than a mere tonic is required Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be safely pronounced the best and most wholesome invigorant extant but the other special medical properties which belong to this remarkable vegetable restorative have as much to do with the wonderful results it produces as its tonic virtues For example, it has certain alterative qualities which literally change the habit or constitution re-establishing the healthy functions of the body without causing any undue evacuation by perspiration vomiting or purging Its entire effect is to put the whole machinery of life in perfect order, to purify all the fluids including the blood and bile and not only to operate as an antidote to disease, where it exists but so to strengthen regulate and otherwise improve the condition of the system as to render it proof against vicissitudes of temperature, change of water, infected air, and other predisposing causes of liver and bowel disturbances and epidemic disorders. Hence it is a medicine for all seasons and climes—useful alike to the traveler and the resident in an unhealthy region, and an invaluable safeguard against the physical disturbances which accrue from cold, damp inclement weather, as well as against the mental depression which is apt to overwhelm the weak and nervous at this some what gloomy period of the year

PLANTATION BITTERS!

S. T.--1860--X.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

For the Oregonian.

The Common Lot of Man.

A weary lot is that of man, to him
No respite comes and no escape from law
Whose thrall he is. His restless powers proud
He bows in meek obedience to toil,
The task of this his mortal servitude

He strives to mould for him a name that shall
As ages onward roll, his memory
Refreshen in the minds of those who, in
Their turn, shall be consigned to earth's last dread
Oblivion—full oft a bootless toil.

How sad the tale, and often told, how truth
And love decay; man's treasured hopes like stars
At morn, do one by one, fade in the light
Of life's changing realities—And oft,
Ere passing out into Eternity
The weary wand'rer leans him o'er the gate
Of Death, the while his burdened memory
Explores the silken mystery of years
To whose long garnered dust he adds a mote—
He sees through all the corridors of Time
The passion-wrought pillars of bondage dire—
The sacred fable of the Past whispers
"Why seek evasion or a peaceful term;
Vain man, to your subjection's bitterness
The lot of man has ever been the same—
Dost deem thyself a fairer in the race?
Ah! all have come and been and gone as slaves,
For all thy kind one destiny was read."

While musing thus, with visioned suddenness
Sweeps o'er his soul in bitter taunting lines
The image of his life's grief-woven fruit;
And in muttered anguish half unmeant
Oft will he curse the hand that holds the scourge
He passes out: The gates forever closed,
His fellow man strives harder to unbar
The prison door of life's reality.
So shall he labor on until the hand
That gave him being breaks the time worn chains
That bind him to his mortal lot. Till freed
From contact with this troubled sphere his soul
Shall pass to its eternity of rest.
His earthly life is but the prelude short
To that full chorus which will after come
Wherefore should he the sweeter chords of life.
Employ, and sweep fair Nature's harmony
In measures of content from his life harp.

China, Japan and Manila.

The Sacramento Union publishes the following news from Japan and Manila, received at San Francisco by the Pacific Mail Company's steamship China, which sailed from Hongkong on the 27th of November:

The North China News says: On the 1st of the present month a new Imperial flag was adopted by the Chinese Government, and the fact has been notified by the Tsungli Yamen to the Ministers, Superintendent of Trade and foreign officials. The new flag is of triangular shape and made of bunting of a deep yellow color, with a blue dragon, courant, in the center. For vessels of 200 hundred feet and under it is to be eight feet long, and for vessels over 200 feet long, twelve feet. The flag is to be borne by all the Chinese war vessels and steamers, including those built at Foochow and Shanghai arsenals, and the customs cruisers.

The latest development of the dispute concerning the shipment of coolies to Costa Rica is of a somewhat startling nature. It appears that the Superintendent of Emigration at Macao refused point blank to take the responsibility of signing the contracts, and that matters went so far that the Governor suggested to him that he would dismiss him from his post. On this the Superintendent said that in that case he would report himself at Lisbon. This did not apparently meet his Excellency's views, and after some further conference, the affair ended in the Superintendent taking a fortnight's leave of absence, and under those circumstances the contracts were signed by the Deputy Superintendent, whose views were more in accordance with those of the Governor.

JAPAN.

We have Yokohama dates to December 7:

The great event of the period has been the reception of H. I. H. the Grand Duke Alexis by the Mikado. The courtesies which passed between the sovereign of Japan and the Russian Prince were of a most cordial nature, and for the first time in the history of Japan, the Mikado has actually accepted and personally enjoyed the hospitality of a foreign Prince. On Monday, the 25th ult., His Majesty came by train to Yokohama, early in the morning, and having first gone on board his own Admiral's ship the Rio-ju-kwan, accompanied by the Grand Duke, the two together went to the Svetlana, the Russian Admiral's ship, on which Prince Alexis is the First Lieutenant. His Majesty partook of refreshments on board. Several foreigners of eminence from the shore were on board, having had the honor of an invitation by his permission—among whom were the Italian American, Spanish and English Ministers. His Majesty left the ship and returned to Tokio about 3 P. M.

MANILA.

According to the Manila Comercio of the 14th and 15th of October, a severe storm raged at that city on the 12th and 13th of October. Much damage was suffered by the shipping, but only a few small crafts were lost! The damage done on shore consisted in trees being blown down in great number, telegraph wires destroyed, houses partially unroofed and made leaky, etc. In one street out of 50 lamp-posts only 5 remained standing. The bodies of eight drowned persons have been found on the beach. It is reported that in one small vessel which foundered, about 15 persons perished. The storm has made ravages in the provinces; at one place 5 drowned persons were washed ashore.

The Strait Times, November 4th, has the following: On the morning of the 16th of September repeated discharges of musketry were heard from the convict prison there. Soon afterward it was ascertained that a large number of prisoners had risen, crying out, "Death to Spain," assassinated in a villainous and cowardly manner the warder, and laid hold of some of the weapons of a company of soldiers stationed there. The insurgents made themselves masters of the fort and kept up a fire on some officials and country people, who returned it, and, by so doing, prevented them from advancing toward the town. The townspeople armed themselves and the men-of-war in the harbor made preparations to bombard the fort. The rebels, seeing that many persons had come out against them, left the fort, desisted from trying to make their way into the town, which, it is said, they endeavored to set fire to, and took refuge in a mangrove forest. They were followed up and three of them killed before they reached the groves. On the fort being re-occupied by the loyal, it was found that the convicts had killed four Europeans and wounded several others. Several Europeans and some soldiers fortified themselves in two dormitories and defended themselves bravely; when relieved, they were all found to be wounded, but not severely.

"Grace Greenwood" writing from Washington to the New York Times in her "personals" says:

"Mr. Schurz, Mr. Fenton, and Mr. Trumbull look a little the worse for the wear and tear of a disastrous, rough and tumble campaign, and the pitiless petting of those Nast-y caricatures. I looked for Tipton, with his bristling hair and orbic mouth, but saw him not. Mr. Butler came into the Senate Chamber one day, and posed himself near where I once saw him stand on a memorable occasion, when his inopportune presence was taken as a grievous insult by Mr. Garrett Davis, and there ensued a singular, silent duel of eyes between the two politicians, Mr. Butler having the advantage. Now I almost looked to see a venerable ghost enter on the scene, glide like a bloodless Banquo into the vacant chair of the dead Senator, and at last look the rash intruder down with eyes of immortal ire."

A Boston dispatch of Dec. 25th says

The proprietors of the leading gambling houses in Boston, together with about a hundred of their patrons, were brought to sudden and unexpected grief this evening. Some ten days ago Chief Constable Boynton, of the State force, in connection with Detective Smith, commenced their plans for a general raid and on account of the dens being more generously patronized on holiday occasions it was deemed wise to make descent on Christmas. Five of the leading places in the city were "come down on" simultaneously, and an aggregate of nearly one hundred men were arrested altogether.

GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS.

There is evidently a split among the English republicans, and it is possible that they may ere long be divided into two distinct camps—the Dilkeites and the Bradlaughites.

A considerate homicide in Onondaga, Kenyon by name, having occasion to kill his brother-in-law, selected the neighborhood of the Idiot Asylum for the transaction to facilitate the empaneling of a coroner's jury.

Blanton Duncan, the great editor of the Bourbon straights in the last Presidential campaign, has changed the name of his paper from the True Democrat to the Commercial Advertiser, and will publish it on Sundays.

Ex Speaker Orr, of South Carolina, has arrived in Washington, to receive his instructions as Minister to Russia, and is being wined and dined by his old congressional acquaintances and by the Russian Legation there.

General Ambrose Ransom Wright, one of the editors of the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle and Sentinel, and member-elect to Congress from the Eighth District of Georgia, died on Friday morning from nervous fever, after about three weeks' illness.

A London journalist announces that the title of "Sergeant", Bates is a legal instead of a military one, its bearer being a brother of the late Attorney-General Bates. The mistake has probably arisen from the Sergeant's fondness for doing a sort of a tonrnay-general throughout England.

When Mrs. Stanton was delivering her lecture on the "Coming Girl," in Green Bay, Wisconsin, she told how her father, when they were going over the highlands of Scotland together, had a pair of boots made for her. After the lecture a bronzed-faced, fuzzy individual said to her.—"An' wi' ye sheK haan's wi' the man wha made the booties for ye?" and there he was. She did.

The Japanese government continue to recruit men of science in Germany, Dr. Hilgendorf, Senior Professor of the Polytechnic Institute in Dresden, and Secretary of the Leopoldina-Carolina in the same city, formerly director of Zoological Gardens, Hamburg, has accepted the chair of Natural Science in the School of Medicine at Jeddo. Dr. Cochins, formerly attached to the Victoria College, Berlin, has also been called as a professor of physics and chemistry in the same establishment.

A recent calculation relative to the principal European languages shows that English is spoken by 90,000,000 of persons, inhabiting Great Britain and Ireland, North America, the Bermudas, Jamaica, Cape of Good Hope, Australia, Van Dieman's Land, Newfoundland and the East Indies; German, by 55,000,000, in their own country, Switzerland, Austria, Hungary, Russia, North and South America, La Plata, Australia, and the East Indies; Spanish, by 55,000,000 in Spain, Cuba, Mexico, the republics of South America, Manila, &c., and French by 45,000,000 in France, Belgium, Switzerland, Canada, Cayenne and North America.

Appomattox.

A correspondent of the New York Evening Post who is "writing up" Southern and Southwestern Virginia, makes these observations about a somewhat famous station on the Southside Railroad.

Midway between Farmville and Lynchburg is Appomattox. When the brakeman opens the door and calls out in a loud tone "Appomattox," there is a general rush of heads to the car window, and everybody looks out eagerly as if expecting to see something very wonderful.

Nothing of the kind appears. A less historical place in appearance will not be found in all this uninviting region. A country store, a wheelwright's a blacksmith's shop, an aged individual, with tobacco juice running out of the corners of his mouth, and two or three piles of oak bark, constitute the first view of Appomattox, as seen from the windows of the train. True, this is only the station, the village of Appomattox being a mile or two away, and the scene of the memorable surrender farther away still. No monument of any kind, I am told, marks the Waterloo of the rebellion. The New Yorker you may sure, had his head out of the window and his tongue going.

"Where is that apple tree that Lee surrendered under?"

"Done out down," said the aged person.

"Where are the roots?"

"Done out up."

"Who cut 'em up—Yanks?"

"Yanks and Confeds, both."

"Root all gone?"

"Clean gone."

"Well, I'm right down sorry. I came here expressly to buy them roots, intending to divide 'em equally between Ulysses and Horace. Good-bye, my venerable friend."

"Far you well," said the old man, as the train moved off.

It is related as a singular circumstance that the owner of the farm on which Lee surrendered also owned the farm on which the battle of Bull Run, July 18, 1861, was fought. Fleeing from the might of the Union armies, he found in Appomattox, as he thought, a place to which they would never penetrate, and there, by a singular chance, witnessed the downfall of the Confederacy.

The Wooden Orator.

Professor Faber's talking machine provokes the following from the New York World:

An inventor has desired of Congress permission to exhibit before it a "talking machine." Such intricate mechanical devices are not unknown nor of recent date. A century and a half ago a Hungarian mechanician produced in public an effigy which, because of certain interior possibilities of wind and adjustments of membrane, made personal remarks in various languages to most of the sovereigns of Europe. Vaucanson made a duck which not only quacked and swam but ate corn and frogs, and, to the disappointment of the latter (who thought it was all a joke), actually digested them. This age has witnessed mechanical marvels as rare. Mr. Barbage has devised an instrument which solves the knottiest mathematical problem and a clever Frenchman, dispensing with the services of the hen, hatches eggs by steam, thereby bringing into a world of pip and potpie crowds of motherless chickens. In view of those achievements it would not be surprising if the inventor had really devised a machine capable of making remarks of considerable point and cogency. If it turn out to be so, it offers us a grateful hope that in time we may dispense with members of Congress altogether, and have our legislative talking done exclusively by machinery. It would be a great saving of wind and money. The cost of running the automatic orator would be really only the wear and tear of a pair of bellows, while the present argumentative, declamatory, high-soaring, but ungrammatical instrument has to be boosted to his business by presents of stock, shares in Indian sutlerships, and other costly pecuniary stimulants. The machine would not want any Credit Mobilier scrip or dividends. It would go right on talking like a supernatural attorney on any and all sides of every question in cheap and unbiased accents, and it would come in time to possess the confidence and respect of the community, as did the unseen oracles of Delphos and Megara.

The New York Herald of the 26th inst. says.

"From the antipodes comes news of death and financial disaster the results of shipwreck and fire. By dispatches from New Zealand we are informed that the ship Newcastle has just been wrecked off Cook Strait, and that sixteen persons were swept from life to eternity by the disaster. The Pacific Fire Insurance Building in Auckland has been totally destroyed by fire. Several stores, which immediately adjoined the structure, were also demolished, as was also a magnificent building occupied by the post, telegraph and provincial government offices. It looks as if a special judgement by fire were already on the peoples, and that the avengement is universal, without respect to geographical limit.

A Family of Giants.

Benjamin and Catharine Troutman, of Londonderry Township, this county, had sons and daughters eighteen. The father and eight of the children have gone to that bourne whence no traveler returns. The mother who is about seventy-five years of age, and weighs upwards 200 pounds avoirdupois, still lives with her son George in Londonderry Township. The ten children now living tip the beam of a "Fairbanks" to the tune of 2,215 pounds. The respective force of gravity of each according to their last census, is as follows:

George, who lives in Londonderry Township, 245 pounds; Joseph, who holds forth at Fair Hope, Somerset county, 220 pounds; John, who resides in the State of Indiana, 205 pounds in his shirt-sleeves; Daniel, who lives in Kansas, 225 pounds, Adam, who is a resident of the "Smoky City," Pittsburg, 240 and and 200 pounds respectively; Nancy who lives in Maryland, 200 pounds; Betsey, who has followed the advice of the lamented Greeley and "gone west," 200 pounds. The father weighed 180 pounds, and the deceased children ranged in weight from 180 to 225 pounds each. If anybody can beat this let him rise and speak.

Peter Troutman son of Joseph, weighs about two hundred pounds. Some time since he and his father were out hunting, and shot a large buck. At the crack of the rifle the buck fell to the ground, and Peter ran up to it supposing it dead, got astride of it and was in the act of cutting its throat when it sprang up and attacked him; he grabbed it by the horns and held on to them. Then ensued a desperate struggle. The father, who was not at this time near enough to assist his son, could not shoot the buck for fear of shooting his son too. He hurried to the scene, leveled his gun across his son's breast and fired, killing the buck instantly. He then found that the buck had gored Peter through the thigh, causing a very severe and ugly wound, which has caused him to keep his bed ever since.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

Financial.

THURSDAY EVENING, Jan. 9, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 112¼.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 85½c buying; 87½c, selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 890 fine.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average, 12s 7d@12s 9d; Club, 13s 2d@13s 4d.

The supply of loanable funds in our local market is doubtless small and by our city Banks is only furnished to regular customers, while outside transactions are somewhat improved, and we note cheering signs of a return of a somewhat better condition of affairs. Business generally is, it is true, but little better than last week, but it is to be remembered that the present week is one in which we are hardly settled down into the business of the new year, nor through the collections of the old.

The Dry Goods Trade.

Both woolen and cotton goods in Eastern markets have already advanced, and though a corresponding movement has not taken place here yet, it is generally conceded that the rise will reach our home markets with the time when merchants begin to stock up for the spring trade. The advance East on all cotton goods has been about ten per cent., and on wool fabrics rather more; on some of the latter the rise has been as high as 25 per cent. Trade in this line is, as usual at this season dull, but few orders reaching our wholesale and jobbing houses, and these for small lots to complete partially exhausted stocks.

Groceries.

Trade in this line is rather better than in dry goods, though hardly so good as in former seasons, owing to the fact that country merchants have grown into the habit of providing against winter transportation by laying in full stocks before the beginning of the rainy season. Our dealers generally have medium stocks on hand, and feel confident of a fair trade during the coming spring. Prices during the week now under review have ruled steady and for foreign goods no important change is noted.

Home Produce Market.

The week under review has witnessed no very material change except as indicated below. The volume of business done has aggregated quite large, and the receipts have been much larger than last week

WHEAT—During the fore part of the week now under review, there were several parties in the city from up the valley who controlled a large amount, and who were here for the purpose of selling, but failed to effect their object for the reason that the exporters here would not advance within ten or fifteen cents per cental of the price asked, which was equivalent to $1 80@2. A large lot would now bring $1 75@1 80 ℔ hundred, and we have no assurance that more would be offered, though we hear of purchases made within the week, in the interior, which will cost $1 90 p'ace here for shipment. We do not presume to predict the future of the market, but aim to give our readers the advantage of all our facilities for acquiring information in regard to the grain movements on this coast and in the United Kingdom, and thus enable them to form their own judgments in the matter. A very reliable gentleman, to-day, who keeps well posted on the subject of prices, informs us that he has private dispatches denoting a quieter and weaker tendency in the Liverpool and San Francisco market.

FLOUR—There is nothing new in the market to note particularly. The advance heretofore noticed is firmly maintained, and the advance on freights to California, has prevented a further upward movement, by keeping lots in the home market which would otherwise have been shipped. We quote extra of Standard brands at $6 50; outside, country, $4 50@5, Superfine, $4. The supply is good.

OATS—The steamer on last Tuesday carried away a considerable quantity, but our telegraphic dispatches would indicate that the San Francisco market, like our own, is dull, and any cause producing unusually large receipts, would bring the market down to a profitless figure. Jobbing lots here range from 55 to 60 cents ℔ bushel. The receipts of the week have been pretty large with a fair demand to supply the local and Puget Sound trade.

BARLEY—There is but little inquiry, except to supply our own breweries, as the San Francisco market at present telegraphic quotations would not justify shipments from here. We quote at $1 40@1 50 ℔ 100 lbs for good to choice, sacked and delivered.

FEED—All kinds are in very fair supply and prices have uniformly been steady during the week. Bran is fairly quotable at $18@20 per ton and active. Chops, middlings, etc, are also in good demand at $30@32 50.

HAY—There is no change of importance to note, figures ruling much as last week. We quote wild at $10a12 and dull, timothy more in demand at $20a21 per ton.

APPLES—There is a better demand with more reduction in the receipts, producing an advance of 10a25 cents per box over our quotations of last week. Good shipping are worth 90ca$1 per box.

POTATOES—The supply continues fully up to the demand and the market cannot be called active, though no decline is noticed, jobbing prices as last week, being 35a45 cents per bushel.

ONIONS—The demand is increasing and, but few offering. The market is firm at 2½a3 cents per pound in quantities, with advances in favor of holders of choice lots.

POULTRY—There is not a very good supply in the market to day, and choice chickens are worth $5 ℔ doz; mixed, young and old, $4 50. But few turkeys and geese on hand; the former quotable at $16@18 ℔ doz., and the latter $10@12.

BUTTER—Were we writing for the farmers alone we would say to them "keep your butter at home at present" for the market for all kinds, except choice dairy for table use, is unusually dull, and dealers quote it all the way from 10 to 25 cents ℔ lb for common country for cooking purposes. Choice table is never in excessive supply, and rates are high the year round. To-day it is quotable at 40 cents ℔ lb.

EGGS—The receipts during the past few days have been large and the market has tumbled down to 25 cents ℔ dozen, at which jobbers quote to-day.

WOOL—Our market is still inactive. A small lot was sold during the week at 32½ cents ℔ lb, at which our market is fairly quotable

HIDES—There is a fair demand and the figures given by us last week are unchanged. They were 6 cents for green, 7@8 for salted and 15@16 cents ℔ lb for dry.

Shipping Intelligence.

The bark Whittlington is at McCraken's wharf discharging ballast, and will probably be ready to receive cargo by the first of next week.

The Barracouta is discharging cargo at Flander's wharf.

The California, from Victoria, with a few tons of coal as ballast, arrived this evening

The Ajax crossed the bar bound outward on Wednesday.

The steamship Oriflamme, with freight and passengers for Portland, left San Francisco to day.

The bark Rival is loading at Flander's wharf for San Francisco. She will be towed down to West Port and finish her cargo with salmon and lumber

A vessel, name unknown, was outside the bar and took a pilot on yesterday It is probably the bark Mendlos sohn, from Hong Kong, in ballast.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies—see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the faces, furred tongue, feted breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

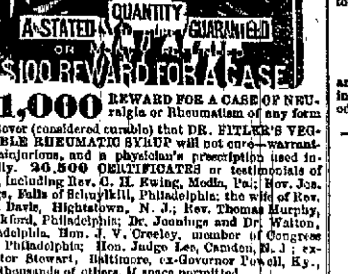

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dope the unwary one of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy too work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.

$1,000 REWARD FOR A CASE OF NEURALGIA or Rheumatism of any form whatever (considered curable) that DR. FITLER'S VEGETABLE RHEUMATIC SYRUP will not cure—warranted uninjurious, and a physician's prescription used inwardly. 20,500 CERTIFICATES or testimonials of cure, including Rev. C. H. Ewing, Media, Pa; Rev. Jos. Boggs, Falls of Schuylkill, Philadelphia; the wife of Rev. J. B. Davis, Hightstown, N. J.; Rev. Thomas Murphy, Frankford, Philadelphia; Dr. Jennings and Dr. Walton, Philadelphia, Hon. J. V. Creeley, member of Congress from Philadelphia; Hon. Judge Lee, Camden, N. J.; ex-Senator Stewart, Baltimore, ex-Governor Powell, Ky., and thousands of others, if space permitted.

GIRARD'S SECRET.—Stephen Girard used to say in his old age: "I have always considered advertising liberally and long to be the great medium of success in business, and the prelude to wealth. And I have made it an invariable rule to advertise in dull times as well as the busiest, long experience having taught me that money thus spent is well laid out, as by continually keeping my business before the public it has secured many sales that I otherwise would have lost."
